V. SPECIAL MUNICIPAL/COMMITTEE/COMMISSION REPORTS:

B 10-035 USFS Update District Ranger Carol Goularte

USFS District Ranger, Carol Goularte, updated the Assembly on a number of issues. Goularte informed their projected budget is $44M, which is $28M less than 5 years ago. The Sitka Ranger boat is being recommended for surplus due to a lack of both project dollars and justification of use. The Sitka District has the highest use of cabins in the Tongass with Allen Point and Starrigavan Creek topping the list. Goularte reported the new offices planned for Halibut Point Road are in final conceptual design stages of conceptual design - funding is still pending. Eighteen applications were submitted last year for Secure Rural Schools and Self Determination. Regarding the False Island Ocean Boulevard project, Goularte noted a wildlife thinning project is underway. Responding to comments from Mayor McAdams and Crews, Goularte said she didn't see the number of USFS employees in Sitka declining. She also spoke to the importance of sustainable recreational programs and on another note added she would look into the possibility of a downtown USFS information site.

VI. PERSONS TO BE HEARD

Garry White, speaking on behalf of the SEDA Board, said the group recently met to work on a Strategic Plan. Support for regional energy was at the top of their list. He announced the Sitka Conservation Society (SCS) is going to fund a sustainable finance intern, made possible through a donation of a SCS member. The hope is to explore what can be done as a community to keep capital and resources within the Sitka economy.

Andrew Thoms spoke to the continuing trend of job loss with the USFS in Sitka. Thoms stated Sitka's need to advocate for the USFS and be aware of their benefits to the community.

VII. REPORTS

a. Mayor

Recently attended meetings in Washington DC with the Administrator, Chris Brewton and Marlene Campbell for the purpose of moving forward Sitka's Legislative Priorities. Also recently attended Southeast Conference in Juneau where energy and transportation were the main focus. He promoted the upcoming Town Meeting scheduled for Friday March 12th on SB 881 and further mentioned March 15, 17, and 19 have been scheduled to discuss Sitka's 27 sales tax exemptions. He ended his report by mentioning the US Census and urged participation from the community. Each family member needs to be counted as this is how federal dollars get allocated. Failure to count one family member could mean a loss of $56K for the community.

b. Administrator

Administrator announced the Benchlands subdivision is being revisited. He applauded Sitka Rotary for their work on Goddard Hot Springs and offered updates on all of Public Works on-going projects.

c. Attorney

Announced she will be in Anchorage next week for hearings on the Initiative Petition surrounding Sawmill Cove.

d. Liaison Representatives

Hackett announced that the Historic Preservation Commission has changed their next meeting to April 7. A review of the Sheldon Jackson College Subdivision request will be their major topic.

McConnell attended the housing forum and learned what Juneau is doing. Long Range Planning and Economic Development Commission met and are planning on how to proceed at their next meeting. The City Shops and Benchland properties top their list as a place to start with housing needs for Sitka. She attended the USFS workshop in Juneau and shared the USFS mandate to raise the bar on tourism recreation. Sitka and Cordova will be pilot projects.

Ozment reminded the Assembly of the invitation to attend the Climate Action Plan would require lower speed vehicles to pull off to the side of the road when impeding traffic; it is a safety hazard.

Police Chief Schmitt spoke in support of the ordinance. Sitka is uniquely situated for these type of vehicles. He wondered if the City should be thinking about low speed vehicles in general and not just electric.

A discussion on adding additional language ensued.

Crews expressed concern with the mix of commercial traffic and low speed vehicles. Assembly members stressed there would be a need for education if this passed.

MOTION by McConnell to strike the word electric.

Motion PASSED on the amendment by unanimous voice vote.

MOTION by Stein to approve Ordinance 2010-01 on first reading.

Additional New Business Items
