The Alaska Wing of the Civil Air Patrol is a diverse group of cadet and adult volunteers that serve our communities, the State of Alaska and our nation. We are truly "Citizens Serving Communities" through a wide variety of methods, from conducting search and rescue for the US Air Force to assisting local Emergency Management Agencies. We are the civilian arm of the US Air Force-- the Air Force Auxiliary. We have an award-winning youth program that promotes self-initiative, discipline, leadership and personal growth and development. We perform over 95% of all aircraft search and rescue missions for the Air Force, and have saved thousands of lives by providing well-trained, qualified air crews.

Chartered by Congress, we work closely with federal, state and local governments, providing a wide range of much-needed services, and all of this without fanfare or financial reward. Local Civil Air Patrol Squadrons are all across the state, serving our communities, the State of Alaska, and America. We are a 501c3 "not for profit" that does all of this using dedicated volunteers from all over the state of Alaska.

Southeast Composite Squadron, Sitka (formerly Baranof Composite Squadron), Civil Air Patrol has, since 1976, provided Sitka with an outstanding program for both adults and cadets. Our cadet program teaches youth from 12 - 18 years of age Aerospace Education, leadership, Character Development, military customs and courtesies and physical fitness. One of the highlights is our Cadet Flight Orientation Program which authorizes each cadet five instructional flights in C.A.P. aircraft during which basic piloting skills are taught, with cadets actually handling the flight controls. These flights are provided free for the cadets, fully funded by National Headquarters Civil Air Patrol. Flight simulators are also used to further enhance this learning experience.

Through our model rocketry course our cadets learn about the science, physics and chemistry of rocketry, as well as the construction, engineering and flight of their own rockets. They also learn about the history and current events of the American space program.

Aerodynamically, everything that applies to full - sized aircraft also holds true for model aircraft. Therefore, we also build and fly radio control aircraft to further explore the science of aerodynamics and aircraft engineering.

Our cadets also provide a professional military color guard that local organizations routinely utilize to commence/conclude their meetings and memorial events.

Many Sitka cadets have gone on to serve in all branches of the armed forces, as well as pursue successful civilian aviation careers. Currently, two cadets are enrolled in the FAA ground school for Private Pilot with the goal of becoming Alaska Airline pilots. One recent cadet is now on active duty in the U.S. Air Force undergoing training at Tinker A.F.B. to become an Airborne Combat Controller.

Last year the C.A.P. Alaska Wing lost our funding from the State of Alaska. All Squadrons must now raise their own financial support to continue functioning. Since we lost our airport building years ago to a private hangar building enterprise (it still remains a crater in the ground, with no hangar ever built), we have no need to pay utilities, etc. However we still have some operational costs; the main one being fuel for our van and supplies/uniform items for cadets. Cadets' families also are expected to provide most costs for uniform items but a pair of boots can be as much as $100.00. I feel very strongly that financial need should never be an obstacle for a new cadet, so being able to pitch in with squadron money to help defray costs is a "must". We would also like to help financially to send cadets to the 2021 Alaska Wing Glider academy in Clear, Alaska.

I believe the benefits to our community, state and nation and most importantly, to our young people through the cadet program are immeasurable and worthy of support from the City of Sitka, and would be greatly appreciated.
